Accuride Corporation's Brillion Farm Equipment Receives FinOvation Award Soil Builder II Named Tillage Category's Most Innovative Product

EVANSVILLE, Ind. – March 25, 2009 – Today, Accuride Corporation (OTCBB: AURD) announced that Brillion Farm Equipment's Soil Builder II was recently selected as one of Farm Industry News' 2008 FinOvation Award winners.

"We are extremely excited to receive a FinOvation award for the Tillage Category," said Mike Irish, Brillion Farm Equipment's Executive Vice President Sales, Marketing, and Product Development. "This is a significant achievement and serves as recognition of the public's interest in the Soil Builder II."

FinOvation Awards are presented annually to the most innovative products coming to market throughout the year.

Designed with today's "Conservation Tillage" farmer in mind, the Soil Builder II features larger cutting coulters, heavier shanks, greater trash clearance and stronger frames to handle today's higher residue conditions and high horsepower.

Features of the Soil Builder II include:

- Front coulters that are 25" in diameter and are located on 7.5" spacing
- Shanks on 15" spacing feature 35" of under frame clearance. 42" between the three rows of shanks provide superior residue flow through the machine.
- Heavy duty frame features a walking tandem rockshaft supported on UHMWE-PE bearings.
- Single point depth control valve allows working depths from 8" to 12".
- 4" one piece twisted shovels are standard equipment.
