Reitz Joins Fabco as Vice President of Engineering

EVANSVILLE, Ind. – November 11, 2005 - Accuride Corporation (NYSE: ACW) announced today that Mark Reitz has joined Fabco Automotive Corporation as its Vice President of Engineering.

With headquarters in Livermore, California, Fabco Automotive is a subsidiary of Accuride Corporation and supplies steerable drive axles, transfer cases, split shaft power take offs and other specialty products for the trucking industry. Fabco is the exclusive North American distributor for Sisu Axles.

“Mark brings over 19 years of engineering experience related to the heavy duty truck industry,” said Al Sunderland, President of Fabco Automotive Corporation. “As Vice President of Engineering, we look for Mark to lead the engineering efforts to enhance our current product line, develop new products, and optimize our manufacturing processes.”

Reitz has a BS in Mechanical Engineering from California State University.

Accuride Corporation is one of the largest and most diversified manufacturers and suppliers of commercial vehicle components in North America. Accuride’s products include commercial vehicle wheels, wheel-end components and assemblies, truck body and chassis parts, seating assemblies and other commercial vehicle components.
